Sheena Luufenberg Wellard Crazy! Drove by this last night. My stomach hurt thinking about the poor people who had been cut out of the car and now my stomach really hurts thinking about how it ended up. When we went by the bull was still alive, surrounded by vehicles and cops had weapons drawn. I'm assuming we barely missed it, thank goodness, since we had 5 small children in the car. Horrible ending!

Narrative

On November 1, 2015, at approximately 1948 hours, I, Idaho State Police Corporal Quinn B. Carmack, was dispatched to assist with officer involved shooting on US 95 in Adams County, Idaho.

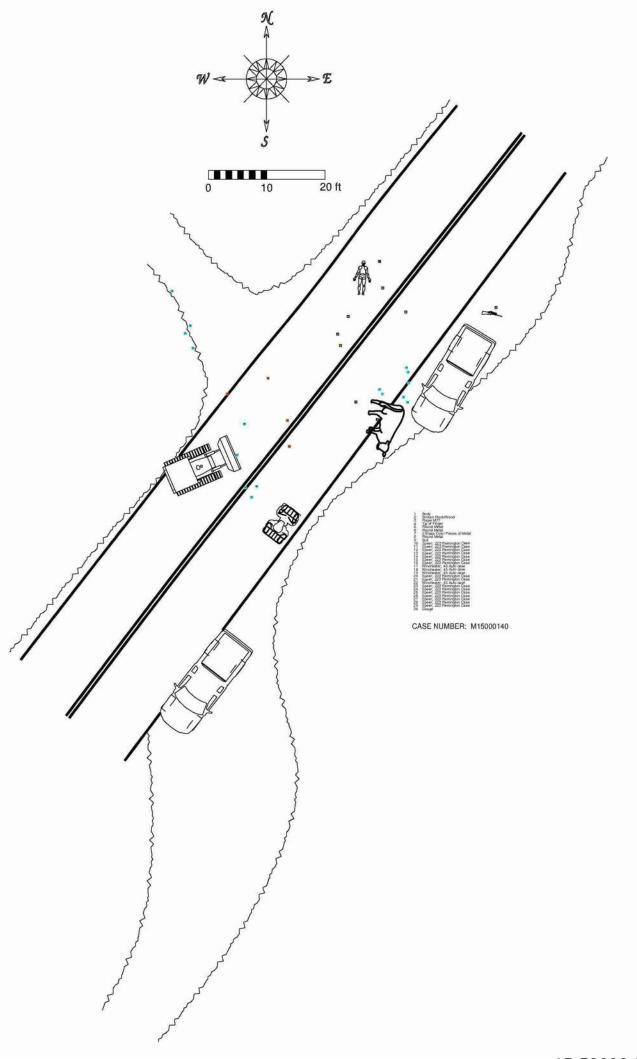

I arrived on scene at approximately 2229 hours. I was tasked with measuring the scene. I measured the scene with the assistance of Corporal Bake. I used my state issued LTI laser with angle encoder while Corporal Bake ran the prism pole. I later returned to the District 3 office and created a scale drawing from the data collected on scene.

On November 13, 2015, at approximately 0925, I was contacted by Detective Horst and asked respond to the scene on US 95 and measure a suspected bullet ricochet mark. I measured the mark and incorporated it into the original drawing.

I completed the scale drawing and delivered it to Detective Horst.

shots. He was unsure of how many but believes there were three different guns because of the sounds. He advised the first gunshot was louder than the following gunshots. He thought the bull was being put down.

4.Ellis walked up the road after the EMT's went running by. He saw a Deputy taking hand cuffs off of Mrs. Yantis. A Deputy had an unknown male cuffed by one of the patrol vehicles. Rowdy Paradis was handcuffed lying down. Mr. Yantis was lying in the roadway. The bull was by the front of a pickup, was still alive, and could not get up.

5.Ellis went back to his wrecker and waited. He later loaded the wrecked car and was then told to stay at the scene with the car. He advised the cars location was marked on the roadway before he loaded it.

- 1. On November 19, 2015 Idaho State Police Detectives constructed a re-creation of the shooting scene involving Jack Yantis and Adams County Deputies Cody Roland and Brian Wood.
- 2. After conducting a walkthrough of the scene with Brian Wood, I was walking through the parking lot back to the district three investigations office. Brian Wood was walking next to me and asked me if my recorder was still running. I told him it was not and he asked permission to ask me a question.
- 3. He asked me if I could tell him if his "shots were effective". I responded by saying "yeah".

- 1.On January 5, 2016, Idaho State Police Detectives Ken White and Gene Wunsch interviewed Rise Gail Smith she relayed the following information.
- 2.Upon her arrival at the scene in the second New Meadows ambulance, Deputy Wood was standing in the south bound lane by Council EMT Crissy Gipe who was knelt down by near Mr. Yantis. Gipe shook her head and told her there is nothing you can do here. She contacted Deputy Wood and told him to come with her. Deputy Wood advised he could not leave the scene. She told him he was leaving the scene. Wood responded ok but my rifle cannot. She told Wood to give his rifle to Doug Buys which he did. She then took Wood to the ambulance.
- 3. She said Wood got shocky at that point. Wood also took his radio off. She gave the radio to Doug.
- 4.She said Wood told her he was not the only officer involved, Deputy Roland was also involved. She had Wood get into the ambulance with Shanna. She sent Doug Buys to find Roland and bring him to the ambulance as he may have been hit. She believed Doug put Wood's rifle in the other New Meadows ambulance when he went to get Deputy Roland because when she went to the other ambulance to get a bigger blood pressure cup, she saw the rifle in the back of the ambulance.
- 5. She said Deputy Roland advised her that his side felt funny "like asleep" but he was not hit or injured. She asked if he had his vest on and he said yes. Shanna was looking for any red marks. Roland said it may have hit my vest.
- 6.She said Deputy Wood told them he had his camera on but it kept going to standby. It would not click on. He took off his camera and laid it down in the ambulance.
- 7.Deputy Wood stated to Roland "I know we are not supposed to talk about this". She told him not to go too far, Wood asked Roland "I just want to know if you saw the rifle? " Deputy Roland responded "I saw the flash that's all I saw". She told them "That's it guys" and they responded ok.
- 8. She said Sheriff Zollman came to the ambulance and asked how Jacks rifle got where it was? Deputy Wood advised that he had thrown it there.
- 9.Deputy Roland requested his cell phone which was in the center console in his pickup. She requested Sheriff Zollman to get the phone from the pickup, which he did and he gave it to Roland, who called his wife and told her he was ok and to stay home she does not need to be in the middle of this.

EVIDENCE DESCRIPTION:

Item 5.1: Swab collected from the "projectile"

Item 11: Reference blood sample from Jack Yantis

Item 11.1: Bloodstains prepared from a known blood sample from Jack Yantis

Item 12: DNA extracts from Items 5.1 and 11.1

CONCLUSIONS AND INTERPRETATIONS:

Deoxyribonucleic Acid (DNA) Analysis, employing the Polymerase Chain Reaction (PCR), was used to generate a Short Tandem Repeat (STR) profile from Item 11.1 and blood previously indicated on Item 5.1.¹

The DNA profile obtained from Item 5.1 matches that obtained from Item 11.1. Therefore, Jack Yantis is the source of the blood on this item.²

DISPOSITION OF EVIDENCE:

The stained portion of Item 5.1 was consumed during testing. All items have been returned to the main laboratory evidence vault for return to the submitting agency.

² This conclusion is based upon the following: 1) a genetic match at the gender identity locus, Amelogenin, in addition to the 15 polymorphic STR loci listed above that have an expected Likelihood Ratio of at least 3.68X10¹⁸, 2) a Likelihood Ratio exceeding the source attribution criterion of 2.0X10¹⁰ (for N=2.0X10⁷, α=0.01 Forensic Science Communications 2(3) July 2000), and 3) that Jack Yantis does not have a genetically identical twin.

Gross Examination

External: Carcass is extremely bloated, gas filled, and malodorous. The right rear leg is broken with exposed bone. There is an opening, approximately 5 cm long, in the skin just below and behind the left front leg where CVTC staff tried to relieve gas pressure in the carcass.

Body condition: excellent with excellent fat depots

Muscular/Skeletal: There is a comminuted, compound fracture approximately midshaft of the right rear metatarsal bone. Both rear legs were severed (left near the hock joint and right approximately midshaft of the metatarsal bone) to free the carcass from the hoist. There is extensive bruising and hemorrhage on the left neck and shoulder area, with some bruising over other parts of the thorax and abdomen. The muscles in this area are extremely autolytic and gas filled with extensive decomposition of these tissues. There is a small laceration on the medial (towards the middle of body) aspect of the right front leg near the fetlock that is oozing bloody reddish fluid and foam.

There were 8 openings in the underside of the skin (#1-8) with associated wounds or tracts in the underlying muscles and tissues.

Wound #1 – Located in the middle to dorsal aspect (towards the backbone) of the left flank, approximately 4.5 cm x 2 cm, with greenish discoloration of the edges and the underside of the skin. The wound penetrated the skin and upper part of the abdominal wall, but did not penetrate the abdominal wall. There is no bruising or hemorrhage around the wound

Wound #2 – Located over the left lateral (towards the side) and caudal (towards the tail) aspect of the neck just in front of the left front leg, approximately 0.6 cm in diameter, overlying a tract that angles slightly downward, medially (towards the middle of body) and caudally (towards the tail) into the neck muscles. It is surrounded by a large area of hemorrhage within and between the muscles

Wound #3 – Located on the ventral (towards the sternum or abdomen midline) aspect of the left thorax over rib #5, approximately 1 cm in diameter, and overlying a tract that enters the chest cavity. Rib #5 is splintered by the bullet likely fragmenting the bullet as it entered the chest cavity. There is extensive hemorrhage around the rib and intercostal muscles along the bullet tract.

Wound #4 –Located over the left lateral (towards the side) and caudal (towards the tail) aspect of the neck just in front of the left shoulder, approximately 0.6 cm in diameter, and overlying a tract which angles medially (towards the middle of body) into the underlying muscles with extensive hemorrhage

Wound #5 – Located over the left lateral (towards the side) and ventral (towards the sternum or abdomen midline) aspect of the neck, midway between the shoulder and the skull, approximately 0.6 cm in diameter, and overlying a tract which angles medially (towards the middle of body) and caudally (towards the tail) towards the thoracic inlet. There is extensive hemorrhage along the tract

Wound #6 – Located over the left lateral (towards the side) aspect of the neck, midway between the shoulder and the skull and just below midway on the lateral (towards the side) aspect, approximately 0.6 cm in diameter which angles slightly downward and medially (towards the middle of body) in to the neck. There is extensive hemorrhage along the tract

Wound #7 – Located over the bridge of the nose about half way between the nasal pad and the eyes, approximately 0.6 cm diameter, with abundant hemorrhage. The bullet tract penetrates the skull at an approximate 10-15° angle towards the larynx. This tract appears to follow muscle planes towards the thoracic inlet.

Wound #8 – a nearly vertical laceration of the skin, approximately 1.5-2 cm long, located approximately 30 cm dorsal (towards the backbone) and caudal (towards the tail) to Wound #1 that penetrates the outermost portion of the abdominal muscle and is surrounded by a 10-15 cm diameter area of hemorrhage. A large shard of glass is present in the wound in the abdominal muscle.

A bullet is found embedded in the muscle of the neck to the right of the trachea approximately 5 cm under the skin. The bullet is surrounded by hemorrhage and blood clots and appears to be associated with bullet tracts from wounds #6 or 7

EENT: The tongue is enlarged with gas and protrudes from the oral cavity. Teeth appear normal with moderate wear Heart: Extremely autolytic with brown discoloration. There is a small laceration of the left apex that pierces the ventricle that is associated with fragments of the bullet from Wound #3. There are minimal blood clots in the heart.

Lungs: Extremely autolytic and discolored. There are multiple lacerations of the ventral aspect of the caudal left lobe associated with fragments of the bullet from Wound #3. There are multiple lacerations of the right cranial lung lobe. There is a very large blood clot in the thoracic cavity. There is a puncture of the dorsal aspect of the trachea just caudal to the larynx in line with a bullet tract (possibly # 2, 5 or 7).

Liver: NE Kidney: NE

GI tract: The esophagus is extremely distended and ruptured in several places in the neck and thorax with rumen contents spilling into the surrounding tissues. The remainder of the GI tract was not examined

Spleen: NE Pancreas: NE

Gonads: autolytic. NVL

CNS: NE

Samples taken:

Histology: Bacteriology: Parasitology: Virology:

Other: X-rays of skull and blood clots in nasal cavities. Blood clots and bone fragments from nasal cavity frozen for fragment retrieval

Results:

Histology: Bacteriology: Parasitology: Virology:

Other: X-ray – multiple metal fragments from the entrance wound in the bridge of the nose that outline a bullet tract that angles towards the larynx. Multiple metal fragments in the nasal turbinates and blood clots within them.

Preliminary Diagnosis: multiple gunshot wounds to neck, chest and head, laceration to left flank; massive blood loss into the chest cavity

Final Diagnosis: multiple gunshot wounds to neck, chest and head, laceration to left flank; massive blood loss into the chest cavity

Comment: The extent of the autolysis makes it difficult to distinguish hemorrhage associated with blunt force trauma from congestion and decomposition. It appears that the left chest wound likely was the fatal gunshot. The gunshots to the left neck and front of the left shoulder created some significant tracts and hemorrhage but did not appear fatal. The gunshot wound to the head was not fatal but was associated with hemorrhage in the nasal sinuses, cranial aspect of the ventral neck, and associated structures.

Wound #1 and the incision near the left front leg were made by CVTC staff to try to deflate the gas in the abdomen and chest of the carcass after its arrival at the CVTC.

The bullet found in the neck could not be assigned to a wound because of the extensive autolysis and decomposition of the animal, especially in the neck area. The muscles in this area were very gas filled and undergoing liquefaction from decomposition. The close proximity of all the bullet tracts and the overlapping hemorrhage patterns also obscured the tracing of the bullet tracts.

Extensive X-rays of the bullet wounds in the neck was not possible as the size of the bull exceeded the capacity of the X-ray equipment available.

Idaho State Police have custody of samples and will retain them, thus this report will be finalized.

Narrative

- 1. On November 17, 2015, I sent Deputy Brian Wood's Axon body cam Serial Number: X78021462 to Taser International, the manufacturer of Axon body cameras, and requested their forensic expert, Bryan Chiles perform a forensic review of the contents of the body camera. Axon body cam Serial Number: X78021462 was the body camera that was on Wood's person at the time of the Officer Involved Shooting incident on November 1, 2015.
- 2. On January 14, 2016, I received forensic report #TS215008 from Bryan Chiles of Taser International, the manufacturer of Axon body cams, regarding Deputy Brian Wood's Axon body cam Serial Number: X78021462.
- 3. Chiles performed a forensic review of the contents and data of the Wood's Axon Body Camera, Serial Number: X78021462. From his analysis, Chiles determined from the camera log that the operator of the Axon Camera powered on the camera on November 1, 2015 at approximately 19:36 hours and attempted twice on November 1, 2015 at approximately 19:45 hours and 19:48 hours to record an incident on the camera. However, at the times the operator attempted to activate recording, the camera was full and out of open data space. No video was recorded on November 1, 2015; the last video recorded was on October 24, 2015.
- 4. On January 19, 2016, I received Wood's Axon Body Camera, Serial Number: X78021462, all video data, the forensic report #TS215008, and a camera activity log file from Federal Express shipping. I resubmitted the camera to evidence. Chiles downloaded all video data, the forensic report #TS215008, and a camera activity log file from Wood's Axon Body Camera, Serial Number: X78021462 to an encrypted micro SD card. I copied the contents of the encrypted micro SD card, decrypted the video data, and copied the decrypted data to a separate thumb disk drive. I submitted the encryped disk from Chiles and the decrypted data disk into evidence.
